

Good Afternoon,

With the new COVID-19 regulations for schools, the state has published a COVID-19 manual to illustrate the importance of education and the role that everyone plays during these circumstances. As parents, we understand your concerns for your students at this time and would like to outline the protocols set out by the Utah State Board of Education and the Utah Department of Health that we encourage you to follow.

For the health of your child and others please:

- Check your child for symptoms of COVID-19 every day before school.
- Take your child's temperature every day before school. If your child has a temperature of 100.4° F (38° C) or higher, the child has a fever. If you do not have a thermometer, check your child's skin to see if it feels warm or is red, or ask if he or she have chills or are sweaty.
- Keep your child home from school if he or she feels sick or has symptoms of COVID-19.
- Follow the quarantine guidance if your child or anyone who lives in your home is exposed to someone with COVID-19.
- Review and update your child's plans (Individual Healthcare Plan, Individualized Education Plan, 504 plan) with the school.
- Help your child clean his or her cloth face covering or mask.

At NDPA, the safety of your students is our number one concern as we prepare for this upcoming school year. If your child is considered "at-risk" we want to assure that the proper protocols are taken to promote the safety of their health. If your child has any certain underlying medical conditions, please fill out this confidential survey:

We have missed all of our students and are excited to see them this approaching school year with these safety guidelines. Please take some time to review the COVID-19 manual set out by the USBE and Utah Health Department for further details concerning the protocols that we will be following for COVID-19 at NDPA.

Sincerely,
